FACT SHEET

CAST

100 dancers, singers, and three specialty acts.

PRODUCTION

Set in seven acts featuring original songs, dances and productions, Donn Arden's "Jubilee!" contains sequences not found on any stage in the world, including amazing aerial stunts, "The Sinking of the Titanic" and "The Destruction of the Temple by Samson."

The show has a $3 million opening number, complete with superb computerized sets, music, effects, lights, sound, choreography and costumes.

The 16-minute opening number is based on Jerry Herman's "Hundreds of Girls" and features 74 performers in extravagant feathered headdresses and gorgeous costumes by world-renown designer, Pete Menefee.

The theater comfortably seats 1,040, including two rows of booths and two rows of tables with swivel chairs. Every seat in the theater offers a clear straight-on view of the stage and the performers.

The show's remodeled finale incorporates fabulous new scenes and meticulously choreographed dance numbers in the elegant style of Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, from their movie classics.

The popular finale includes the famous Red Feather Fan number with the songs, "In the Still of the Night," "Night and Day," "Begin the Beguine," and a new version of "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes."

SETS

One hundred different sets and backdrops, with approximately 100,000 light bulbs and over 125 miles of wiring.

STAGE

At 190 feet in length and 73 feet deep, the Jubilee stage is half the size of a football field and 15 stories tall from the bottom of the orchestra pit to the roof. It also includes three main double-decker elevators, each with 100,000-pound lift capacity, six small elevators and two revolving elevators that are used in various scenes to lift dancers and sets.

Almost 70 stagehands are required to operate the stage, sets, lights, elevators and sound equipment.

COSTUMES

More than 1,000 costumes are worn during the show, many designed by Bob Mackie and Pete Menefee. The original cost for the costumes was $3.5 million, and 18 people work in wardrobe, keeping the costumes in excellent shape.

FEATURES

4,200 pounds of dry ice are used every week to create the smoke effects; 10 pounds of explosives used nightly in the 50 different pyrotechnical effects. "The Titanic" is an exact miniature replica of the original luxury liner and the sets were reproduced from photographs. 5,000 gallons of recycled water cascade across the stage during the "iceberg" scene.
